

Parent Information About Title I Schools

Red Mountain Elementary is a Title I school. That means that our school receives additional funding and support for academic programs that other schools do not have. Title I is a federal program through ESSA, the Every Student Succeeds Act, which is designed to

- Help students achieve academic success in Reading, Mathematics and Science
- Provide support for children learning English
- Increase student achievement in high poverty schools through school-wide reform
- Build teacher quality through researched-based professional learning opportunities and
- Enhance parents' abilities to help their children succeed through quality parental involvement and learning.

Each year Title I schools involve parents in the development of a school improvement plan, a parent involvement policy, and in the writing of a school/parent compact. Red Mountain's Community Council serves as our parent advisory council; however, all parents are invited to give input and any parent is welcome to attend the regularly scheduled Community Council Meetings posted on our website and listed in our school newsletters. As these documents are developed, copies will be shared with all parents.

As a Title I school, we offer the following additional services to children at our school:

- 4 year old preschool
- Free and reduced cost breakfast
- Free and reduced cost lunch
- Small group and individual tutoring
- All-day kindergarten for children who qualify
- Computer assisted remediation and acceleration
- iReady computer instruction at school and home

These special programs and services are available through Title I and are designed to help our children succeed.

During the school year, you will be receiving information through flyers sent home about our school's performance and progress. These will show how our students have done on annual testing compared to how they have done in the past and how they rank against other students in our school district and state. This information will also be posted on our school website.

As a parent, you also have the right to request information about your child's teacher's professional qualifications and about our school's para-professionals. All teachers at our school have been certified by the state of Utah as highly qualified and all of our classroom aides have been certified to work with elementary children. The teachers at our preschools have all been trained to work with young children and each has received certification with their Child Development Associate.

During the 2nd SEP conferences, scheduled for November 12-15, you will receive information about your child's performance on the end-of-level SAGE test and iReady progress, and you will receive a copy of our school-parent involvement policy. Each child will have an appointment time so that you and your child can meet individually with your teacher to discuss strengths, yearly progress, needs and goals specific to your child. Both day and evening appointments will be available to accommodate different family schedules.

If you have any questions about Title I, your child's teacher, para-professionals working with your child or any other school program, please contact me, the principal, in person, by letter or email. We look forward to working with you and your children this year.

Jenny Leavitt, Principal

Dallas Dixon, Title I Coordinator